Mrs. Bonnie Yiu

Our older daughter's vision needed special care from a very young age and we were recommended by her paediatrician to put her under the care of an ophthalmologist. Annual visits to the ophthalmologist's became as routine as her annual physical check-ups. Throughout those years, we have come to realise the importance of primary eye care by a professionally trained optometrist.

I am most pleased with the services provided at Dr Ada Cheng Optometrists. The staff is courteous and professional, from appointment-making to follow up services. The eye examinations and vision checks are thorough and methodical with a no-nonsense approach. The clinic is easily accessible and well-equipped. Ample time is given at each appointment and patients are promptly attended to. I came to Ada through the recommendation of a friend and I'm just as comfortable to recommend her to members in my own family and friends at large.

With my first pair of progressive lenses, I had great difficulty adjusting to them. I was all ready to forfeit the convenience of having one pair of glasses to serve my needs for both reading and distance, yet it was Ada who patiently and persistently encouraged me to give myself time to adjust to wearing them. She listened carefully to my grievances and took the effort to send my glasses back to the laboratory to make sure that nothing was amiss. Her professional opinion was that given time, I will eventually get used to the lenses and appreciate the convenience in the long term. I trusted and adhered to her earnest advice...now I would not have traded my progressive lenses for anything less! It is this kind of professional care and personal attentiveness that is hard to find nowadays.
